Enough is enough, Microsoft has done more for the computer industry and the economy in general than any corporation in history. The competition failed to realize that proprietary and non integrated technology has no place in the computer industry and have become part of our economic slowdown. (I remember well the pre Windows era when new programs did not work without re-configuring the whole operating system, now thanks to Microsoft it all works together) Please drop this ludicrous litigation and let Microsoft get on with the business of helping the country move ahead.
